

Dante offers a variety of professional Tarot services. The highest ethics are upheld & readings are conducted with strict confidentiality.

Conducted in his studio, private consultations generally last an hour and nothing is required other than an open mind. Sessions are not recorded, but rather note taking is encouraged. Dante conducts phone sessions for those who cannot come to see him in person. Appointments are made on a first come, first served basis. It is best to allow a two-week lead time for greater availability.

In Addition, Dante is available for Tarot parties, which are created on an individual basis with a host. Whether in a home or in a public location, parties can range from formal to causal and are customized to suit the needs of the gathering.

Tarot reading for events can be a unique form of entertainment, adding an exciting dimension to any personal or corporate function. Events can range from bridal showers and birthday parties to holiday functions and benefit events. Visit www.tarotbydante.com to find out more.

TONY: Of all the years you've done readings, is there one particular time that you were shocked with a person's reading?

DANTE: There have been many wonderfully surprising stories and situations throughout the years (almost 30 years now) so I cannot say that one particular reading stands out over other ones. I guess when a client has an experience I described, almost immediately following our session, that holds a bigger shock value to me than after time has elapsed. For example: "I cannot believe that the next day after seeing you... I got that job offer, or meet the guy you told me about."

TONY: I've known you for a long time and when you have done my readings. I know that sometimes you will give some advice in regards to something that we are talking about. Is this something you do with other clients?

DANTE: Absolutely! Most people are seeking advice or direction from me. The cards are my tools that I use when I work on a client's psyche, and it very often introduces a venue for discussing ideas, options, paths, cautions, etc...

I describe my work as therapeutic in nature, so I am not afraid to offer advice, especially when asked. I feel that my clients, both first-timers and those long-standing, respond well in the manner I address different needs. Often times, I find advice is simply a reminder of "common sense."

TONY: You have people from all walks of life as clients; do you have a ton of Gay clients?

DANTE: As one might expect, most of my clients are straight women with gay men ranking second in numbers. Then I would say straight men are next, followed by lesbians, and then transgender clients. I have been reading more gay clients in the recent years, which I really enjoy, and hope that this client base continues to expand. Being gay myself, I feel that I can connect well to gay issues and offer specialized direction with the Tarot cards.

TONY: When did you discover your "Gift"? Did you know when you were a kid?

DANTE: My mother is a Tarot reader and astrologer, so I grew up with it. It wasn't until I was about 15 years old that I started to play with Tarot and develop an interest in the Occult. My mom had books on the subject and gave me my first deck of cards.

I started practicing on myself, then started reading for family and friends. It was a gradual, enjoyable process that came naturally to me. I had my first clients by the time I was 18 and saw how amazing it was to use them to help others in their life journey.

TONY: Tell "One Way - Mag" readers what they can expect if they come to see you.

DANTE: I work with people to offer direction, hope, validation, priorities and vision to their life now or what it can become.

My goal is to empower my clients to move their life in the greatest direction possible in an objective, non-judgmental way to the best of my ability. I am personable and warm, and speak from my heart.

Sometimes there are laughs and sometimes tears, but I maintain a healing and optimistic approach with each reading.

I am open to answer any questions directly as well.

In a private session, Dante focuses on:

- Current events and the path ahead
- Things one knows about, plans on or is aware of
- Things one doesn't know about, plan on or is aware of. Events that one can plan for or change.
- Things one loves, cares and longs for, and desires. Also, what one might fear.
- Environment & World Around You: Where one works, rests and plays
- Things one focuses on, analyzes and thinks about
- Internal emotions and external events
- Any number of questions and issues, as requested by the client.
